

“From the Office of The President”

February 2021

Dear Mutual Partners,

When you look closely at our logo, you see a torch encircled by our company name. While not knowing the history behind the logo, over the years, I have developed some thoughts; especially now that it is my turn to pass the torch to a new President.

The Olympic torch, the symbol of continuity between the ancient and modern Olympic Games, is a proud tradition. It is now being relayed to Ron Wilder and his seasoned team who are committed to upholding the Security Charter and the traditions which this torch represents. For over 30 years, Ron has been instrumental in the success of Security Mutual, previously serving as Treasurer and now, as President.

President Ronald Reagan remarked, at the 1984 Olympic Torch Relay Ceremony, “Athletes look to their sport with a common mind, knowing that they will never go fast enough to say, “This is as fast as we can go.” There will always be a new standard to aim for – that last fraction of an inch, that extra second... The thrill of striving for excellence in sports, as in other areas of our lives, fires our imagination, stirs us to dream great dreams, and often enables us to achieve them. By embracing the Olympic tradition, we have reason to look to the future with optimism and hope because the Olympic spirit carries beyond the field of competition.”

This Olympic spirit exemplifies the Vision, Values and Mission of Security Mutual, as we continue to provide “Security for Those We Serve”.

Finally, another very important part of our logo is the word “Mutual.” It is my opinion, what made Ronald Reagan the greatest President in modern history, was his ability to make you feel like a part of the solution. President Reagan rarely used “I will” when communicating to others – it was always “we can.” YOU, our mutual partners, and local hometown heroes, are the key to our past and future success – Thank You for your Service and Loyalty.

So when you see our logo, remember what it represents:

Encircled Torch – Excellence, Innovation and Optimism
Security – the urge to protect and serve, at whatever cost
Mutual – Together, we can

*Sincerely,
Roy*
